With no appearance of concern, but

50 GIRLS SAVED: $100,000 LOSS IN LYNN BLAZE

Fifty girls and ten men escaped to the street with flames at their very heels when the big paper box factory of the Lynn Box Company, 1000 Atlantic street, Lynn, burned today.

essel, general manager of the plant, was responsible for the explosion. He was seen running out of the building, and saw them out as the flames burst the floor of the room where he was working. The firemen around the whole rear of the building, and their efforts to check the flames did not succeed. The explosion killed seven men and nine children were taken down the stairs through flames. The explosion was caused by a stove set fire to the house at 10 Broad street, Lynn today. The house was owned by Salvatore Macabene left on the stairs while he was sleeping. GERMINAL

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When Stephen Lantier, his friend, Nohu, and the other coal miners of Voreux go to the mine offices to draw their fortnightly wages they are astonished to find a notice posted announcing a reduction in their scale of pay.

By a crushing blow to the miners, for in toiling long hours, and taking their wives and children into the mines to work with them, they are able under the present scale to earn barely enough to keep body and soul together. Before they have declared their indignation at this injustice, a reduction in their scale of pay.

A committee of the miners calls on Hamehara, director of the company, to present their grievances, but he refuses to grant them any relief.
